REFEREE'S VIEWPOINT OR DILEMMA?

1. As a Referee I often act, or as a linesman I behave.
   For the first I blow a whistle
   The second, a flag, I wave.

2. I try to do an honest job,
   To be fair to everyone,
   But no matter what, I can never please,
   Every, Mother's son.

3. Last week whilst running the line,
   I waved "offside" against United.
   A spectator then jumped up and down,
   He really got excited.

4. T'was plain to see what he thought of Refs,
   (Oh! How lowly he did rate us).
   When he questioned my ability,
   And my parent's marital status.

5. He made suggestions unto me,
   with words as old as time.
   He said to take my flag, and "Put
   It where the sun don't shine.

6. The world is full of naughty man.
   There's butchs, queers, and gays.
   But this one was a beauty,
   He added the word, "Sideays".

7. It was clear to all he was really mad,
   And for me was surely gunning.
   Whilst me, I thought, "My flag! Sideways!
   That could be painful when I'm running.

8. Still I try to please most everyone.
   And would have done this without a gristle.
   But I had to say, "There's no room there,
   It's already full of whistle.

9. The moral of this story,
   It's been known since Auld Lang Syne.
   You can please all of the people,
   But, not, all of the time.
